

Facts Regarding Your Income Tax

To avoid penalty, income-tax returns must be in the hands of collectors of internal revenue on or before midnight, March 15, 1922.

Every taxable return must be accompanied by a payment of at least one-fourth of the total tax due. Extensions of time for filing returns are allowed only in exceptional cases, illness, absence, etc. Applications for extensions under these circumstances should be addressed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives. No extension beyond thirty days can be granted by a collector. Requests for further extensions must be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

For failure to make a return on time the penalty is a fine of not more than $1,000, plus 25 per cent of the tax due.

For failure to pay tax when due or for understatement of the tax through negligence there is a penalty of 5 per cent of the tax, plus interest at 1 per cent a month until paid. For making a false or fraudulent return the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000, or not exceeding one year's imprisonment, or both, together with the cost of prosecution and an additional assessment of 50 per cent of the amount of tax paid.

Alma High School Notes

Friday afternoon during the regular chapel period Mr. Rutledge, the evangelist at the United Brethren church, gave a brief address. He took for his theme "The One Great Ruler" and supplemented his subject with personal experiences. His talk was short but interesting and his audience showed much appreciation.

After a curtailed session on this selfsame Friday afternoon, two basketball games were played. One of them, between the Senior and Freshman girls, was a shining example of feminine gentleness. No toe was stepped on without the conventional "Excuse Me," and the ball was gently tossed about so that it would not bounce upon the floor and make any undue noise. Not so with the second game, between the Senior and Junior boys. It was a rough house in every sense of the word. The gentlemen involved forgot the little they really knew of basketball and indulged in a little game of "Button, Button, who's got the Button?" When the guilty party was found he was duly pounced upon and thoroughly punished. At any rate both games proved very interesting possibly not as a display of athletic prowess, but at least as a heretofore untasted form of amusement. By the way, the Senior girls bested their adversaries 21 to 8 and the Juniors managed to take time out long enough to score 10 points to the Seniors 8.

Coch Mullin and Mr. Van Hoesen attended the funeral of Mr. Palmer at Morenci last Saturday. The funeral was held in one of the local churches.

To supplement their study of mushrooms, Mr. Sharp spoke to Mrs. Rogers' botany class on that subject at the regular class time on Tuesday. As he is a recognized authority on the mushroom, or whatever it's called, family, his talk was very instructive and was intensely interesting as well. He spoke from practical knowledge and gave the students many points which might have passed unnoticed in the text discussion, which is necessarily brief and compact.

The regular academic program has been broken somewhat by the absence of several of the teachers at various times during the week. Miss Lovejoy has been absent from a great many of her classes because of a very irritating illness. Mr. Swigart missed one day's program. Mr. Barnhart was indisposed most of last week.

The comparison of marks this month uncovered a very interesting fact. The invincible Sophomore class, who held second place during last semester, took a big tumble. The second yearlings now foot the list. The Seniors lead with an average mark of about midway between B and C. The Juniors come second, the Fresh third and the Sophomores last. The fall of the Sophs is unexplained. The debating team has scheduled a non-decision clash with the representatives of the Zeta Sigma Society of the college. The high school team will take the negative side. The reason for the debate is to keep the team in trim for the final elimination for the state title. The team has been in comparative idleness for almost six weeks and Coach VanHoesen expects the Tuesday encounter to re-arouse the fighting blood.

IN APPRECIATION
The members of the East Superior Christian Church desire to express their sincere sympathy to the family of H. J. Winchell and at the same time to voice their own sense of loss in the translation of so worthy a friend and brother.

Mr. Winchell was a devoted, talented and enthusiastic Christian during the greater part of his long life. He never appeared before the public as a teacher without having made an exhaustive study of the matter in hand.

His bodily presence will be missed by no organization of the city more keenly than by the Church which had several times honored him by electing him to its eldership and to which his material and spiritual aid was so generously given.

To us he seems to have been among that number of whom it was said: He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the trust of pure women and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauties or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration whose memory a benediction.

In loving memory,
G. H. Carl, B. T. Wells, Harry Way, A. M. Bartling, Van Rench, H. H. Anderson, Elders.

Money spent with us buys not only good coal but satisfaction and reliability as well. Brown-Ward Co., phone 27.—60tfc

What Every Woman Wants to Know

That styles of dress must be adapted to the special "architecture" of each woman is no new theory, but many fail to realize how really great an improvement can be made in one's appearance by a wise choice of garments. These principles are particularly important in the case of figures which vary from the "average." If, for instance, you are stout, you should avoid the following: Lines going around the figure; horizontal rucks or ruffles; any combination of skirt and waist which accentuates the waist line; wide, tight belts; short skirts; extremely broad or extremely small hats, and hats with round crowns; white, light, or bright colors; thick or bulky materials; stiff silks or satins, or swiss organdies which stand out.

The stout person should choose: up and down lines; panel in front; long sashes, scarves, chains or beads; pointed drapery that hangs below the hem line; curpline line of waist crossing below the bust line; overskirts extending almost to the bottom of the underskirt and laid on in plaits; rather than gathered at the waist; medium sized hats with square or uneven brims and crowns; dark, dull colors; smooth, flat, clinging clothes such as crepes and voiles.

If you are tall and thin, the question is not so momentous; practically the opposite of the suggestions given above will prove helpful. Short skirts make the figure look shorter unless conspicuous shows draw attention to the feet, or unless the legs are thin and badly shaped, in which case they should be concealed as thoroughly as possible even at the expense of adding to the appearance of height. Hip draperies and fullness at the elbows make the figure appear broader. The waist may be emphasized by wide sashes and girdles; drop shoulders combined with flowing sleeves or shoulder collars of contrasting colors also heighten the broadening effect.
